Course Description & Goals:

Research in Craniofacial Pain and Temporomandibular Disorder diagnosis and management has been extensive in the last 15 years. Dentists who have not been directly involved in this area may have gotten behind in mainstream diagnosis and management of their patients. Treatment methods that were appropriate 10 to 20 years ago may no longer be appropriate. As with other disciplines of dentistry and medicine, research and new diagnostic technology change the methods for proper treatment. This course will provide an opportunity to get up-to-speed on current literature and treatment techniques. A research/evidence based approach to diagnosis and management of Craniofacial Pain/TMD will be presented.

Goals:

- Assess for TM disorders
- Diagnose TM disorders
- Read TMJ MRIs
- Treatment Plan TM disorder care
- Provide Appliance Therapy
- Finish TM disorder case
